From Garden to Table:
Education through community involved gardening.
A partnership with McColl Center for Visual Art.

June 27 - July 1, 2011; 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Grades: 6-8; Price: $425

Explore the arts through this innovative summer camp at Johnson & Wales University.
Learn how to prepare beautiful, delicious meals using only the freshest of ingredients, straight from the garden.

- Students will learn about locally grown food and sustainable practices while helping in the Johnson & Wales University community garden. Mornings will be spent in the garden and afternoons spent cooking in the kitchen.
- Students will collaborate with summer camp students from the McColl Center for Visual Art as they design and create a work of art for the garden. One afternoon will be spent visiting the McColl Center and helping with the creation of the garden art piece.
- The week will end with a “picnic” for students and parents at Johnson & Wales University community garden. Space for this special partnership is limited to 12 students.
